HOW PARLIAMENTS CAN AND MUST PROMOTE EFFECTIVE WAYS OF COMBATING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN IN ALL FIELDS

Preliminary draft resolution prepared by the co-Rapporteurs
Mrs. H. Lee (Republic of Korea) and Mrs. M. A. Martínez García (Spain)

The 114th Assembly of the Inter-Parliamentary Union,

- (1) Reaffirming that violence against women constitutes a violation of women's human rights and fundamental freedoms,
- (2) Stressing that the causes and consequences of violence against women are intrinsically linked to longstanding gender inequalities that restrict the full enjoyment by women of their human rights,
- (3) Recognizing that women belonging to minority and indigenous groups, refugee women, migrant women, women living in rural or remote communities, destitute women, women in institutions or in detention, women with disabilities, elderly women, women in situations of armed conflict and girl children are especially vulnerable to violence,
- (4) Alarmed by the spreading of violence against women throughout the world, both in the home and in the workplace, including trafficking in women and girls and forced prostitution, sexual violence within and outside marriage, and certain traditional practices that are harmful to women,
- (5) Concerned that the legal framework and action plans laid down by States, the United Nations and other international, regional and national organizations have proved to be insufficient or inadequate to combat violence against women effectively,
- (6) Stressing that the primary responsibility of States is to act with due diligence to prevent human rights violations, investigate acts of violence, punish their perpetrators and support their victims,
- (7) Recalling the importance of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (1979) and its Optional Protocol (1999), of the Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women (1993), as effective instruments to combat violence against women (VAW), and noting the existence of regional legal instruments on violence against women,

(8) Noting all relevant resolutions adopted by United Nations bodies, including Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) on women and peace and security,

(9) Noting that violence against women hinders human development and the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals,

(10) Stressing that the eradication of violence against women requires preventive and responsive policies and actions and the involvement of all actors of society, including men,

(11) Stressing the key role of parliaments and parliamentarians in preventing and eliminating violence against women,

1. Urges governments and parliaments to ratify international and regional instruments pertaining to violence against women, such as the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) and its Optional Protocol, and ensure full compliance with those instruments and with pertinent United Nations resolutions;
2. Calls upon parliaments to ensure that CEDAW State reports systematically include information on violence against women, in particular statistical data, information on legislation, support services to victims and other measures adopted to eliminate violence against women;
3. Urges parliamentarians to refer and make use of to the IPU/UN Handbook for Parliamentarians: The Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination against Women and its Optional Protocol;
4. Calls upon governments to implement the United Nations General Assembly resolution 52/86 on Crime prevention and criminal justice measures to eliminate violence against women and, in particular, to punish all acts of violence against women, in the public and the private spheres, to establish courts specialized in hearing cases of such violence, and to establish a governmental body promoting the prosecution of all acts of violence;
5. Encourages governments and parliaments to establish observatories on violence against women, and to compile statistics to monitor the effectiveness of policies for the elimination of such violence;
6. Encourages the establishment of parliamentary bodies to monitor and evaluate all international and national measures designed to prevent and eradicate violence against women, and suggests that a rapporteur for these bodies submit an annual report before the plenary Assembly for information, debate and public circulation;
7. Calls upon the United Nations to assist in the development among States of a common basis for statistics on violence against women; for the evaluation of the impact of measures taken to combat such violence, for the assessment of costs of violence against women;

8. Calls upon parliaments to review legislation to detect practices and traditions that impede the attainment equality between the sexes and to eliminate inequality in all spheres, in particular in education and access to property and land;
9. Calls for the promotion of nationwide awareness and educational campaigns to encourage changes in social and cultural attitudes regarding gender roles and to eliminate patterns of behaviour that engender violence; to that end, encourages cooperation with the media;
10. Calls upon parliaments to ensure that information on gender-related violence is available to all public agents involved in the prevention and prosecution of violence against women;
11. Calls upon parliaments to ensure that sufficient resources are allocated and clearly earmarked in the national budget for plans and programmes to eradicate violence against women in all fields;
12. Urges all States to cooperate with and support women's organizations working to eliminate violence against women;

On domestic violence

13. Calls upon governments and parliaments, if they have not yet done so, to develop and implement adequate legislation to combat domestic violence;
14. Calls upon governments and parliaments to develop national plans to combat domestic violence that include measures related to research, prevention, education, information and penalization, the prosecution and punishment of all acts of violence against women (including violence within marriage), attentiveness to social, financial and psychological support for victims (including children living with their mothers), and special support for the most vulnerable groups;

On female genital mutilation/cutting

15. Calls upon parliaments to spare no effort to end female genital mutilation/cutting (FGM/C) within a generation and
16. Recommends that strategies for the abandonment of FGM/C be developed within the wider context of the promotion of human rights, the right to and development and the reduction of poverty;
17. Calls upon parliaments to work with civil society, traditional chiefs and religious leaders, women's and youth movements and governments to ensure complementarity in working towards the abandonment of FGM/C;
18. Calls upon States that have not yet done so to consider adopting legislation outlawing FGM/C and to encourage the development of alternative rites to this practice;

19. Calls upon parliaments to take note of the Final Declaration adopted by the African regional parliamentary conference, Violence against Women: Abandoning female genital mutilation, the role of national parliaments, held in Dakar in December 2005, and to take all necessary measures for its dissemination and implementation;

At the workplace

20. Calls upon parliaments to ensure compliance with the United Nations General Assembly resolutions on Violence against women migrant workers and with General Recommendation No. 19 of the Committee on the Elimination of Discrimination against Women, by increasing activities to prevent such violence, promoting and protecting the rights of migrant workers and by strengthening relations with countries of origin;
21. Requests parliaments to promote close cooperation between governments, employers and trade unions to achieve greater efficiency in preventing and eradicating all forms of violence against women in the workplace;

On sexual violence

22. Calls upon parliaments and governments to review the effectiveness, at the national and local levels, of legislation on sexual violence; further calls for the establishment of a policy exchange network to facilitate exchanges of policy options and experiences at the international level;
23. Emphasizes the value of effective correctional programmes to prevent recidivism, which is particularly high among sex offenders;
24. Calls upon parliaments, when debating methods for gathering evidence and devising measures to punish sex offenders, to give special attention to the difficulty encountered by children and mentally disabled women - who are especially vulnerable to sexual violence - when they must testify in court;

On human trafficking

25. Urges those States that have not yet done so to sign and ratify the Convention for the Suppression of the Traffic in Persons and of the Exploitation of the Prostitution of Others and its Final Protocol, and the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, Especially Women and Children;
26. Recognizes that globalization has aggravated and accelerated human trafficking; and stresses the need to build international and regional cooperation among countries of origin, transit and destination, through instruments such as memorandums of understanding and bilateral agreements;
27. Encourages governments to establish legal mechanisms to protect the human rights of victims of trafficking, a considerable number of whom are illegal migrants who, because of their illegal status, do not report to the authorities;

On violence in situations of armed conflict

28. Urges States that have not yet done so to sign and ratify the Geneva Conventions on the protection of victims of armed conflicts (1949) and their Additional Protocols (1977), the Convention relating to the Status of Refugees (1951) and its Protocol (1967) and the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, and to withdraw any existing reservations;
29. Calls upon parliaments to intensify efforts, in cooperation with relevant international organizations such as the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the United Nations Development Fund for Women (UNIFEM), the United Nations Fund for Children (UNICEF), and the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC), to improve systems to monitor and report violence against women and girls in armed conflict;
30. Requests parliaments and governments, in accordance with Security Council resolution 1325 (2000) on women, peace and security, to ensure a gender balance in military and peacekeeping operations, to offer training in gender equality issues, and to establish mechanisms to monitor compliance with all measures taken to these ends, and to ensure that women participate at the decision-making level in all peace negotiations and peace processes;
31. Requests parliaments to ensure that all peacekeeping troops receive training in the United Nations code of conduct and in the standards of international human rights law and humanitarian laws.
